NEWSReaction to posters on the streets of Küçükçekmece*DECEMBER 02, 2019

Küçükçekmece Municipality, hanged posters in many districts in order to draw attention to violence and murders against women. Citizens living in the district, however, reacted by saying that the expressions used in posters affect the psychology of their children. Child and Adolescent Psychiatrist Assoc. Prof. Dr. Sevcan Karakoç Demirkaya said that such posters have a negative impact on children's mental health.

Posters prepared by Küçükçekmece Municipality was hanged posters about violence and murders against women on the billboards at different points of the county days ago. The posters include the words such as "my grandfather killed my mother, my fiancé killed me, my son killed my daughter, my husband killed my daughter, my son killed me, my ex-husband killed me, my father killed my mother". Citizens reacted to the expressions in the posters on the main streets, streets and billboards in front of the schools. Parents are uneasy and state that they cannot explain the situation children see the poster.

They overcame their obstacles by swimming

DECEMBER 03, 2019

82 disabled persons aged 5 to 55 got together at the Swimming Festival on the 3rd December International Day of Disabled Persons.

The Swimming Festival on the 3rd December International Day of Disabled Persons was held in cooperation with Istanbul Provincial Directorate of Youth Services, Istanbul Gelisim University (IGU) Health, Culture and Sports Department, IGU Corporate Communications Department and Association of Sport and Education Sciences for Disabled Persons.

Ahmet Serdar Demir, who is a university student and paraplegic for 8 years due to jumping shallow water, participated in the swimming festival, and said: "I will get what I lost in the water back in water by swimming" stating that he began to swim after 7 years of physical therapy.

Turkish equivalents are searched for English words in the Digital world

As technology developed and settled in the center of our lives, the terms and concepts of western languages began to be used in our language as Turkish equivalents cannot be found. Honorary Chairman of Turkey Informatics Association İlker Tabak said: "If Turkish terms become widespread in digital, they have positive effects on technological development. Otherwise, the technology develops and progresses, and we become only consumers of it." In order to resolve this problem.

The issue on changing terms into Turkish was discussed by specialists in five different tables with the topics 'Digital Reputation, Industry 4.0 and Artificial Intelligence, Digital Media, Cyber Security and Society 5.0' in Turkish in New Communication Environments: "Current Problems and Term Suggestions Workshop" at Istanbul Gelisim University. Güler Gülsevin, Head of the Turkish Language Association (TDK), also took part in the workshop organized to produce Turkish terms in order to avoid the confusion of Western terms in communication technologies and to eliminate the difficulty of expression.
