Support for mental health of earthquake victim students who will take YKS

FEBRUARY 05, 2020

Emphasizing that educators and psychologists never mentioned the psychological trauma experienced by the students preparing for the university admission exam (YKS) in the earthquake, Educator Abdulkadir Gayretli stated that they are ready to provide all kinds of work and support to overcome earthquake traumas of candidate students, and said: "We will work to minimize anxiety for the future of young people."

Stated that people must learn to live in Turkey with the fact of earthquake, but also take the necessary measures, Gayretli said: "Everyone should do whatever needs to be done legally and in a humanistic manner, consenting to their right. Minimizing damage and death rates starts with training. Earthquake education and awareness-raising is done in all organizations and institutions in Turkey. We are ready to do our part."
