NEWS*Green area measure against drought; 5 tons of savings are aimed*DECEMBER 14 2020

Turkey faced with the threat of drought. State Hydraulic Works announced that there are 3-month resources in the reserves that meet the water needs of the megacity Istanbul. One of the measures taken against the danger is the savings in green space irrigation. With the measures developed by the academicians of Istanbul Gelisim University, a saving of 5 tons is aimed at the end of the project at the end of the project.

Experts said that Turkey has spent the last 10 years in the most severe period of drought. However, the drought measures and strategies to be taken are of vital importance. Starting from this responsibility, the academics aim to save water with the measures they develop. Architect Mahmut Sevgi, Deputy Head of Support Services Department of Istanbul Gelisim University, said: “Drought has become a big problem for both our country and the world. We wanted to be a solution to this problem with savings. We took various measures to save money in the green area in the university garden.”

Distance education supported student-centered education*DECEMBER 15*2020

Saying that distance education experienced with the coronavirus epidemic supports the student-centered education model, Asst. Prof. Dr. Derya Kavgaoğlu said: "The student-centered education philosophy raises autonomous, self-directed and self-sufficient students that the 21st century needs."

The educational digital transformation, experienced with the coronavirus epidemic and affecting the whole world, necessarily introduced the masses to distance education and hybrid education forms. Stating that transition to these forms of education would take years in normal time, Asst. Prof. Dr. Derya Kavgaoğlu said: "The pandemic period quickly turned a transformation that could take a long time to be put into effect with discussions on educational, technological, economic and political grounds, into our social reality. Education Management Systems (LMS), synchronous and asynchronous training contexts, webinars, management of virtual classrooms, learning environments enriched with web 2.0 tools soon became an educational terminology that we adapt to globally."
